

This world of mine      DADGAD    Capo III    D
©Martin Browne 04/05/2003 – Amended 06/01/2007

D            A            Bm    A            D
Do shooting stars rain down like diamonds in my sky?
D            A    Bm    A            D
Do castle walls fall to the sound of a giant's cry?
G            A            Bm            G    A
Are my life's plans dictated by some mystic sign?
Em            A            D    A    Bm    A
No, not in this dull world of mine

Do shining knights fight as a champion for my cause?
Do thronging crowds surge near to offer their applause?
Am I the key in some future grand design?
No, not in this small world of mine

[Bridge:]

Em            A            Bm            G
Oh and it's such a heavy burden that we bear
Em   Bm            A    A7
Living out our tired lives
Em            A            Bm            G
Never brave enough to see what lies beyond the door
Em   Bm            A    A7
Is it safer not to care?

Do warm winds blow and lift my spirit to the skies?
Do soft rains fall and wash the salt from round my eyes?
Do flowers thrive and never wither on the vine?
Yes, just beyond this world of mine

[Bridge]

Will some clear voice ring out above the daily din?
Will some strong hand reach through and calm the child within?
Does peace of mind wait there for those who cross the line
Between this world of yours and mine?

Between this world of yours and mine
